The Path to Launch Your College Career

ADELPHI
UNIVERSITY
NEW YORK

Reaching my full potential—can you help with that?

At Adelphi, we know that college potential goes beyond grades and test scores.

Our philosophy is that each student is an individual who takes a different path to reach his or her goals. That's why we created our General Studies Learning Community. For more than 30 years, this one-year, innovative program has provided support for first-year students adapting to college life.

Here you'll benefit from individual mentoring and counseling to hone your academic abilities, allowing you to move forward with confidence. We'll work with you to improve your writing, problem-solving and study skills as well as your test-taking strategies.

By the end of your first year, you'll have gained the knowledge needed to succeed in your remaining undergraduate years—and beyond.

Don't worry. We've got you covered.

66 Students should give themselves time to develop both as a student and as an individual because growth happens over time. And when you look back at your first year in General Studies once you're a senior, you'll see how far you've come."

—Ashley Vasquez '13, M.A. '15, General Studies Learning Community graduate and current counselor

What kind of classes can I take?

You'll get to pursue your passions in the General Studies Learning Community, where you can discover a host of exciting new subjects.

The coursework is challenging and rigorous, but you won't be doing it alone—we'll be there to help you get ahead.

*“*General Studies has benefited me so much with creative thinking and writing skills. If you show interest and apply yourself to your studies, the professors can see how hard you're working and applying yourself. Professors give their 50 percent and expect you to give your 50 percent as well.”

How will that help me succeed?

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS

Our first-year seminar, World of Ideas, anchors the General Studies Learning Community curriculum. Here you'll explore a fascinating array of ideas in ethics, government, justice, science, faith and art.

You'll also take two required full-year courses—Freshman Composition and Western Civilization—as well as a one-semester General Psychology course and a one-semester mathematics course: Problem Solving Across the Curriculum.

Learning how to communicate is a cornerstone of our program. You'll write papers each semester in each of your required writing courses, so that by the end of the academic year, you'll be able to think and express yourself with imagination, critical skill and clarity. Don't worry: If you need assistance, faculty mentors are readily available.

Also by the end of your first year, you'll have met many of your general education requirements in the sciences, humanities and social sciences, leaving you with the freedom to pursue electives outside your field of study.
